WASHINGTON, March 26.—SENATE.—The Senate passed the Pacific Telegraph bill—28 to 14. Mr. Gwin moved to take the bill to facilitate communication between the Atlantic and Pacific States. Agreed to.

Mr. Latham moved an additional section that materials to build the line be conveyed by the Government when it can be done without additional expense or inconvenience. Not agreed to.

Mr. Grimes moved an amendment that the Telegraph Company and its agents will not interfere with the rights to locate a railroad hereafter by the pre-emption of all the lands on that route; agreed to. The bill was read a third time and passed—yeas 28; nays 18.

The Consular and Diplomatic bill was taken up. The committee's amendments were considered with the following result:

The appointment of a Minister to Paraguay was not agreed to.

The appropriation, in the bill, of $225,000 for the relief and protection of American seamen; so amended as to provide that $175,000 of that sum be used for the fiscal year ending June 30.

The appropriation of $10,000 for acknowledging the services of masters and crews of foreign vessels on rescuing citizens of the United States from shipwreck, was agreed to.

The appropriation of $10,000 for expenses incurred under the instructions from the Secretary of State in bringing home from foreign countries persons charged with crime, and the expenses incident thereto, was agreed to.

The appropriation of $4,000 to enable the Secretary of State to defray the cost of a mission to Canton, China, from the 1st of January 1857, to January 1st, 1857, and the compensation of the Marshal of the Consular court at Canton from January 1st, 1854, to December 15th, 1857, was agreed to.

Mr. Hunter then moved an amendment appropriating $15,000 for a Minister to Paraguay. Mr. Mason advocated the necessity of a Minister, as tending to develop commercial intercourse with that country.

Mr. Benjamin hoped the bill would not pass, and that there was a necessity for retrenchment in the diplomatic service. After further discussion the amendment was rejected, and the bill passed.

The bill to authorize the sale of public arms to the States and Territories, and to regulate the appointment of superintendents of the national armories, was taken up.

The bill was read a third time and passed—yeas 28; nays 18.

The bill supplemental to the act to authorize protection to citizens of the United States, who may discover deposits of guano, was then taken up and discussed at length, and postponed till tomorrow.

A joint resolution from the House on the relief of the mail contractors, was read and passed.

After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Clark B. Cochrane appeared and took his seat for the first time since the organization of the House.

Mr. Thayer introduced a bill withdrawing the representation of Congress from non-resident landholders in the several States and Territories.

Mr. Spaulding introduced a bill making an appropriation of seventy-five thousand dollars for the repair and improvement of the Buffalo harbor; also authorizing the improvement of St. Clair River.

Mr. Florence introduced a bill to fix and regulate the duty on interest.

Mr. Montgomery introduced a bill to establish an essay office at Acheson, Kansas.

The above bills were all appropriately referred.

Mr. Blake introduced a bill to repeal the fugitive slave law of 1850. Referred to the Judiciary Committee, on motion of Whiteley.

The Committee on Commerce was instructed to inquire into the expediency of introducing a bill making the appropriation for a steam revenue cutter for the Delaware river.

Mr. Curtis introduced a Pacific Railroad bill, which was referred to a select committee.

Mr. Garrett introduced a bill enabling citizens of the United States to carry their property free of duty, and without molestation into the Territories of Kansas. Referred to Judiciary committee.

Mr. Morse introduced a resolution, declaring that no more efficient measures should be taken for the suppression of the African slave trade, which rapidly on the increase, and as it is a crime against human nature and opposed to the moral sentiments of mankind.

Mr. Boocock offered a resolution censuring Messrs. Kilgore and Washburne of Me., for not resting, which, after considerable debate he withdrew.

Mr. Colfax, by request of the Post-office Department, introduced a joint resolution for the convenience of that Department, appropriating for the year, accruing revenues for the payment of contracts for carrying the mails during the quarter ending March 31st. Not passed.

Among the resolutions adopted as one calling for information in relation to the reciprocity treaty, and whether Canada has violated its spirit; and requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish all the information in his possession in regard to contracts for keeping public stores, and whether any member of Congress, directly or remotely, has a pecuniary interest therein.

On providing for a select committee to inquire into the tobacco trade, with a view of a renewal of the restrictions of foreign nations, and one inquiring into the money paid for the transportation for the army of Utah.

Mr. McQueen offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the committee on Ways and Means, to inquire into, and report if they can find a measure relieving the shoemakers of Massachusetts from the tyranny of the capitalists of that State, by repealing the duty of leather and other important articles which entered into the shoe-making business.

Mr. Vallandigham offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling for a correspondence relative to the Swiss treaty and disabilities therein upon Hebrew citizens of the United States, a former resolution on the same subject not having been answered, and additional correspondence having since taken place.

Also, a resolution inquiring into the cruelties alleged to be practiced on board American merchant vessels.

Mr. Blake offered the following preamble and resolution:

Whereas, The chattelling of mankind, and the holding of persons as property, is contrary to natural justice, and the fundamental principles of our political system, and is notoriously a reproach to our country throughout the civilized world, and a serious hindrance to the progress of liberty throughout the nations of the earth. Therefore,

Resolved, That the committee of Judiciary be, and to some other body, be instructed to inquire into the expediency of reporting a bill giving freedom to every human being, and intervening slavery whenever Congress has the Constitutional power to legislate on the subject.

A scene of confusion ensued, amid which the roll was called, and the proposition rejected—60 against 106.

Mr. Harkin, from the committee on Public Expenditures, made a report on the subject of the Public Printing, concluding with a resolution requiring a practical printer to be elected by either House. He is also to execute the binding, and to give bonds in the sum of $35,000, and 40 percent, is to be deducted from the prices now allowed by law. The consideration of the subject was postponed till Thursday next.

Mr. Sherman, from the committee of Ways and Means, reported a bill supplying the deficiency for the year ending with July next, and a bill for the payment of sundry civil expenditures of the next fiscal year.

The House then went into committee of the Whole, and the army appropriation bill was taken up.

Mr. Seidewitz made a Republican speech and the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—SENATE.—Mr. Johnson, of Tenn., rose to a personal explanation. He had seen in the New York Herald, a report of a speech made by the Senator from New Hampshire, Mr. Clark, at Dover, on the 17th of March, in which he had been made to his State and to himself.

The extract was read by the clerk, in which it was stated by Mr. Clark that Tennessee had no little industry or enterprise to develop her mines of copper, &c.; and further, that, in a conversation, he (Clark) had had with him (Johnson), he had made some admission relative to the insecurity of slave property at the South.

Mr. Johnson asked if this were a correct report. Mr. Clark positively declined to give any explanation in the Senate.

Mr. Johnson would then assume that the report was correct, and answer it accordingly. If the Senator had made himself familiar with the facts in relation to money in Tennessee, then he had stated what he knew to be untrue; and if he had not made himself conversant with the facts, then he spoke of something which he knew nothing about.

He then drew a comparison between the relative productions of Tennessee and New Hampshire, making deductions favorable to the former. As to the alleged conversation, he had never used the language attributed to him.

Mr. Clark said that when the proper time arrived he would take occasion to state what he did say in his speech, and when he did, he would say nothing in disparagement of Tennessee, or dispute the fact that she made more horses, asses, and mules than New Hampshire.

The bill to increase and regulate the pay of the navy was considered.

Mr. Fessenden offered a substitute mainly giving lower salaries, but increasing some of those of the lower grades.

Mr. Crittenden offered an amendment to the original bill to increase the pay of midshipmen. Agreed to.

Mr. Shilld offered an amendment that no vacancies of chaplains shall hereafter be filled. Lost—yeas 15; nays 23. Adjourned.

HOUSE.—SENATE.—SENATE.—An amendment concurred in to the bill for fulfilling the treaty stipulations with the Indians of Oregon and Washington.

Mr. Briggs presented a petition from New York numerous signed, praying for the passage of a bankrupt law.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the bill to provide for the safety of passengers, promulgated in whole or in part by steam.

Mr. Washburn, (Ill.) urged the importance of the passage of the bill. No remonstrance against it had come from the West, from New England, or from the South, and there was none from anywhere, except perhaps, particular localities. This bill proposed, by subjecting, ferry, tug, and freight boats to examination by a local board of inspectors, bringing them within the provisions of the law of 1852. The propriety of this is obvious. Some most terrible accidents have happened on ferry boats. The provisions of the same statutes should be extended to sea steamers, limiting the passengers to a reasonable extent, and requiring the vessels to be examined by local inspectors.

The bill also provides for a system of lights, following the example of France and England, and for four new boards of inspection, one each at Memphis, Oregon City, Paducah, and Helena.

The entire additional cost to the Government, as compared with the present law, would not exceed $217 per annum.

Mr. Taylor alluded to a substitute which he had prepared, providing that the insurance be vitiated by a failure to comply with the requirements of the present law, and for the prosecution of the master, engineer, pilot, or any other officer of any vessel on which life is destroyed by fire, explosion, or at the wheel. Said officer not to be again employed on any steam vessel until a verdict is rendered that he is absolutely free from blame.

A debate followed on the merits of the bill. Adjourned.

THE CARSTANG DIVORCE CASE.

St. Louis, Mo. 26.—The defense in the Carstang vs. Shaw case, closed their testimony to-day.

Nancy Wilber, of Charleston, testified this morning as to her having seen John G. Seaman and Miss Carstang in bed together, and at another time, lying on the floor of a shop, Seaman being partially undressed.

The Court will hold three sessions daily hereafter, in order to finish the case this week. The rebutting testimony will commence to-morrow.

FROM THE RIO GRANDE.

NEW ORLEANS, March 27.—News from Brownsville of the 24th has been received.

Two companies of Rangers, under command of Capt. Ford, and two companies under Capt. Stone, crossed the Rio Grande on the 16th into Mexico, in search of Cortinas, who had retreated to the frontier. The troops approached his encampment at night, drove in the picket, and took 20 prisoners, who claimed to belong to a large body of Mexican National Guards, also in search of Cortinas. Next morning a large Mexican force appeared and claimed the prisoners as their guard. It was afterwards ascertained that these were the men who were seeking the Americans, that Cortinas was with them, and had escaped at the first alarm. Our troops remain encamped on the Mexican side, above Brownsville, and are determined to capture Cortinas. Major Hentzelman sent reinforcement of two pieces of artillery.

Three thousand church troops are expected on the Rio Grande.

It is reported that General Garcia invited the American troops into Mexico.

KANSAS ELECTION.

LEAVENWORTH, March 27.—An election was held in this Territory yesterday for county officers. The vote polled was very light in Leavenworth county. The Democrats elected their candidates by about the usual majority.

FLIRTATIONS OF MARRIED WOMEN.—The innocent flirtation of married women is one of the abominations of modern society. Even a desire for promiscuous admiration is wrong in a wife. The love of one and his approval, should be all that she ought to desire. Lethal be ever so beautiful, it is a disgusting thing, appealing sight to see her seeking the attentions of senseless lops around her, and rejoicing in the admiration of other eyes than those of her husband. Her beauty should be for him alone, not for the gaze of the fools that flutter about her. There is always among the sedate and the wise a sensation of disgust, when a married lady attempts to ensure or attract young men by profuse display of her charms, or an unbecoming display of her smiles. Such charms and such smiles are loathsome to the indifferent beholder; the trail or the serpent in our view.

TASTE FOR MIDNIGHT RAMBLING.—Meadway has a singular taste for walking to rough the deserted streets of the great metropolis in the dead of night, when the citizens were fast asleep, and all was hushed. Those were the hours he used to select for recreation and thought—when that utter loneliness which is peculiar at midnight to great cities, steals over the meditating wayfarer, solitary, apparently, and alone in the world. Dr. Johnson possessed a similar taste, and Charles Dickens is singularly fond of the old city streets and alleys when they are emptied of the busy throng that fill them in the day time. Lord Jeffrey, once writing to him, remarked: "How funny that basin of yours for my night rambling in city streets, and how curious that Meadway should have the same taste or fancy. I thought there were no such inspirations as yours to be caught in the practice, I should expose my poor irritable traces, I think, to a nocturnal pilgrimage without scruple. But I fear I should have my ven- ture for my pains."

Pleasures of Skating.

Perhaps Brick Pomeroy, local of the Milwaukee News, cannot give in his views of skating, and then again, perhaps he can. It is the best pen and ink portrait of skating that we have ever seen:

"Right beneath one of our windows, from morn till midnight, we see youngsters and oldsters twirling and gliding in all associated style. We cannot pick up a paper but an article on skating meets the eye. Everybody says it's fun, and that is all everybody knows about it, for we have tried it. Last night about gas light time, after reading a glowing description of life on skates, we prepared for our first attempt, and sallied forth to join the merry crowd. We had on a pair of stoga boots, trousers legs tucked inside, a Robert tail coat, and white hat. We went down on the ice, and gave a boy two shillings in good coin of the realm, for the use of his implements. We, with the assistance of a friend, fixed on the skates, and stood erect like a barber's pole.

Encouraged at the sight of some ladies on the bridge looking at the skaters, we struck out. A slant to the right with the left foot—slant to the left with the right foot—and just then we saw something on the ice and stooped over to pick it up! On our feet again—two plants to the right and one to the left, accompanied with a loss of confidence. Another stride with the right foot, and we sat down with a fearful rapidity, with very little, if any elegance! What a set down it was, for we made a dent in the ice not unlike a Connecticut butter-roll! Just then one of the ladies remarked—"Oh, look, Mary, that fellow with the white hat isn't got his skates on in the right place!" Ditto, thought we. Just then a ragged little devil sang out as he passed us—"Hello, old timber legs!" and we arose suddenly and put after him. Three slides to the right—two to the left and away went our legs—one to the right and the other to the west—causing an immense fissure in our pants, and another picture of a butter tray in the cold—oh! how cold—ice! Then the lady, who knew she was one by the remark she made—again she spoke and said—"Oh, look, Mary, that chap with the white hat has sat down on his handkerchief to keep from taking cold!" We rose just about as graceful as a saw horse when Mary said—"you ought to take your chief, Jane!" and Mary was right. It wasn't a handkerchief—not a bit of it. Just then a friend came along, and proffered us his coat tail as a "steadier." We accepted the continuation of his garment, and up the river we went about ten rods, when a shy to the right by the leader caused us, the wheel horse, to scoot off on a tangent, heels up! We tried to be cool this season!

"We tried it a slide or a glide on the ice, and a half the other, when 'whack' came our bump of philoprogenitiveness on the ice, and we saw a million stars dancing around our eyes, like ballet girls in the Bowery theater. How that shock went through our system, and up and down our spinal column. Lightning couldn't have pierced it down a greased sliding with great speed and ease, and ending in a sliding down a greased butter not a warrant deed could have struck stronger than we did—and a dozen ladies looking at us and our fissured pants.

"Hello, old cock!" sang out that ragged imp again, and we there he! Soon we got up and made our other trial, with better success. Perhaps we had skated in our regular style, fifteen feet, when a sliding derling chip came up behind, and we sat down with our dried red pillow in his lap—and he swearing at us, when it was all his own fault! How cold the ice was! Every spot where we made our debut on the ice—oh! how cold it was! Our best skin drawers were no protection at all! We tried again, for the papers all say it's fun, and down came our Roman Grecian on the cold jup material, and the little drops of perspiration on our forehead, and the cold ice. Once more we tried skating—made for the shore, sat down, and counted damages.

Two shillings in cash thrown away. Seven latter 1 and one from a broken arm, the ice.

One immense fissure in his handsome pair of ten dollar cassimere as man ever put his legs in.

One up in the knee extending to the knee. Four-bit piece, providing that the insurance be vitiated by a failure to comply with the requirements of the present law, and for the prosecution of the master, engineer, pilot, or any other officer of any vessel on which life is destroyed by fire, explosion, or at the wheel. Said officer not to be again employed on any steam vessel until a verdict is rendered that he is absolutely free from blame.

But I fear I should have my ven- ture for my pains."

WASHINGTON, March 27.—SENATE.—Mr. Johnson, of Tenn., rose to a personal explanation. He had seen in the New York Herald, a report of a speech made by the Senator from New Hampshire, Mr. Clark, at Dover, on the 17th of March, in which he had been made to his State and to himself.

The extract was read by the clerk, in which it was stated by Mr. Clark that Tennessee had no little industry or enterprise to develop her mines of copper, &c.; and further, that, in a conversation, he (Clark) had had with him (Johnson), he had made some admission relative to the insecurity of slave property at the South.

Mr. Johnson asked if this were a correct report. Mr. Clark positively declined to give any explanation in the Senate.

Mr. Johnson would then assume that the report was correct, and answer it accordingly. If the Senator had made himself familiar with the facts in relation to money in Tennessee, then he had stated what he knew to be untrue; and if he had not made himself conversant with the facts, then he spoke of something which he knew nothing about.

He then drew a comparison between the relative productions of Tennessee and New Hampshire, making deductions favorable to the former. As to the alleged conversation, he had never used the language attributed to him.

Mr. Clark said that when the proper time arrived he would take occasion to state what he did say in his speech, and when he did, he would say nothing in disparagement of Tennessee, or dispute the fact that she made more horses, asses, and mules than New Hampshire.

The bill to increase and regulate the pay of the navy was considered.

Mr. Fessenden offered a substitute mainly giving lower salaries, but increasing some of those of the lower grades.

Mr. Crittenden offered an amendment to the original bill to increase the pay of midshipmen. Agreed to.

Mr. Shilld offered an amendment that no vacancies of chaplains shall hereafter be filled. Lost—yeas 15; nays 23. Adjourned.
